COLLEGE READINESS RESOURCES FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in many countries, including the United Kingdom (Murray & Lewis 1998). The prevalence of schizophrenia is estimated to be 1% of the population (Murray & Lewis 1998).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with schizophrenia. The World Health Organization (WHO) has developed a number of strategies to improve the lives of people with schizophrenia, including the development of community mental health teams (Murray & Lewis 1998). The WHO has also developed a number of guidelines for the treatment of schizophrenia (Murray & Lewis 1998).

The aim of this study was to evaluate the effectiveness of a community mental health team in the United Kingdom. The study was conducted in a large urban area with a high prevalence of schizophrenia. The study was conducted over a period of 12 months. The study was conducted in a community mental health team that had been established in 1995.

The study was conducted in a community mental health team that had been established in 1995. The team had a number of services, including a day hospital, a crisis team, and a residential care unit. The team had a number of staff, including psychiatrists, nurses, and social workers. The team had a number of patients, including people with schizophrenia, people with bipolar disorder, and people with depression.

About the College Board

The College Board is a mission-driven not-for-profit organization that connects students to college success and opportunity. Founded in 1900, the College Board was created to expand access to higher education. Today, the membership association is made up of over 6,000 of the world's leading educational institutions and is dedicated to promoting excellence and equity in education. Each year, the College Board helps more than seven million students prepare for a successful transition to college through programs and services in college readiness and college success—including the SAT® and the Advanced Placement Program®. The organization also serves the education community through research and advocacy on behalf of students, educators, and schools.

Dear Educators:

We understand how challenging it is to maintain a culture of college readiness in your school. That's why each year we produce a new set of counseling resources that are among the most trusted in the industry. We hope they'll be useful to both you and your students.

As you may know, in the past two years we've launched a new SAT[®] as well as a redesigned PSAT/NMSQT[®], PSAT[™] 10 (which is the same program as the PSAT/NMSQT), and PSAT[™] 8/9. These assessments are closely aligned to the work students are doing in the classroom, focus on what matters most for college and career readiness, and make it easier for students to show their best work. To support student practice, we've doubled the number of practice SAT tests in The Official SAT Study Guide[™] from four to eight, each compiled from actual test items selected from the official item pool.

Practice opportunities for SAT Subject Tests[™] have also expanded this year with new study guides for biology, chemistry, and physics, as well as separately revised guides for each of the math and history subjects.

As always, the 2018 editions of our annual college guides, such as the College Handbook and Book of Majors, will help open the doors to your students' college search. The College Application Essay and the newly revised Get It Together for College will steer students through the college application process.

The 2018 editions of Getting Financial Aid, the Scholarship Handbook, and the CLEP Official Study Guide will help students discover available funding options and explore the possibility of credit through exams.

All of these resources will enable you to provide students the most current and accurate data and test information available. We look forward to continue working with you to clear a path for all students to succeed in college.

Sincerely,
The College Board
